

Corporate Yoga Australia

Stage 2 package

A complete, testable and build-ready definition for the release-one website experience

Recommended direction

Build a buyer-led workplace wellbeing system, not a redesigned catalogue of classes. Make one-off sessions immediately visible and commercially complete, then show how CYA can create recurring rhythm, connected programs and an organised year of support when the organisation is ready.

Prepared for Glenn Hammond and Debby Lewis. Working package v1.0, 31 July 2026.

Authority: approved definitive blueprint, completed questionnaire, business and content decision workbook, strategic source of truth, Wellbeing Studio brand material, pricing discovery, supplied wireframe pack and latest client direction.

1. Is this the strongest solution?

Yes, with one important qualification: the strongest solution is not a page-by-page refinement of the present CYA website, nor a polished version of the earlier modality-first wireframes. It is a new product and experience architecture organised around buyer intent, organisational context and level of support.

The recommended model

Core experience idea

CYA makes it easy to begin with one useful moment. Where greater continuity is useful, those moments can become a recurring rhythm, a connected workplace program or an organised year of support. Every entry point is commercially valid.

- Keep one-off sessions, awareness-day activities, short series and conference activations visible before or alongside the Year View.
- Use movement, mindfulness, workshops and digital support as adaptable ingredients rather than the entire product architecture.
- Position Wellbeing Studio as the continuous digital layer within the CYA corporate relationship.
- Use proof in context, where doubt arises, rather than leading with an unexplained badge or logo strip.
- Design the consultation as a useful planning service that is proportionate to a single session as well as a larger program.
- Separate scalable Studio subscription entitlements from bespoke CYA delivery and strategic partnership work.

Why this is stronger than the alternatives

Alternative	Why it is weaker	Decision
Rebuild the current service catalogue	Reinforces commodity comparison and underrepresents CYA's planning, coordination and digital continuity.	Reject as governing architecture
Lead the homepage with trust badges	Begins defensively before establishing a memorable proposition; proof should support claims in context.	Use selective early reassurance, not badge-led sequencing
Publish a tiered price comparison now	Package boundaries, unit economics and service allowances remain unresolved.	Keep pricing controlled until commercially validated
Create a separate WS marketing site	Duplicates acquisition, governance and SEO while release one already has a clear CYA sales-page model.	Defer

Alternative	Why it is weaker	Decision
Make the Year View the first offer	Risks obscuring one-off demand and implying a minimum commitment.	Use after immediate entry choices are clear

Design quality test

The proposed architecture will feel premium because it demonstrates judgement: fewer but clearer choices, real workplace adaptation, proof placed beside uncertainty, and a coherent transition from live moments to digital continuity. It avoids generic wellness language, inflated claims and decorative complexity.

2. Governing decisions, assumptions and dependencies

Status	Item	Stage 2 treatment
Approved	CYA leads corporate acquisition; Wellbeing Studio is CYA's digital layer.	Use throughout IA, navigation and page copy.
Approved	Moodle remains the authenticated member environment.	Public site links to member sign-in; no platform replacement in release one.
Approved	One-off sessions remain prominent and valuable.	Visible in hero, first offer module, navigation and conversion copy.
Approved	The Wellbeing Year is optional planning logic.	Illustrative only, after one-off and short-series routes are clear.
Approved	Primary audience is HR / People & Culture.	Homepage and core proof are written for this buyer.
Approved	Conference organisers are second commercial priority.	Dedicated top-level route and contextual conversion.
Working direction	Access, Engage and Thrive package progression.	Use internally as commercial hypothesis; do not publish price or entitlements yet.
Working direction	Thrive may be a strategic partnership rather than a Studio tier.	Resolve during commercial package definition.
Evidence required	Client proof, facilitator credentials, national capacity, legal and insurance records.	Use controlled placeholders; block publication until approved.
Open decision	Final marketing platform and CMS.	Define requirements now; select at Stage 2 gate or early Stage 3.
Open decision	Final Studio schedule, replay, reporting and support model.	Draft product copy only from confirmed current capabilities.

Controlled dependency rule

Missing launch evidence does not stop experience definition. It stops the affected claim, asset, price, entitlement or legal statement from becoming publishable.

Evidence hierarchy

1. Latest explicit decisions made after the definitive blueprint.
2. Approved definitive CYA blueprint.
3. Completed questionnaire, decision workbook and strategic source of truth.
4. Brand guides and product materials.
5. Current website and earlier wireframes as migration and current-state evidence only.
6. Consultancy recommendations and labelled hypotheses.

3. Final release-one sitemap and navigation

The sitemap is intentionally shallow. It creates direct buyer pathways while preserving modality findability and search intent. Distinctiveness belongs in the narrative and content system, not unfamiliar menu labels.

Primary navigation

Label	Destination	Role
Workplace wellbeing	/workplace-wellbeing	Broad one-off and recurring service entry point.

4. Content disposition and initial redirect framework

The current website is not a content model. Every existing page or asset must be assessed against the approved proposition, evidence status, search value and future user task.

Disposition	Use when	Examples
Retain and rewrite	The topic is strategically necessary and has a clear future page.	About, corporate yoga/movement, mindfulness, contact.
Merge	Several thin or overlapping pages answer one coherent buyer question.	Yoga, Pilates, chair yoga and desk movement into Movement with focused subsections or SEO pages where justified.
Reframe	The topic remains useful but its current proposition is weak or modality-led.	Programs, conferences, Wellbeing Studio.
Retire	Content is unsupported, duplicated, obsolete or does not serve a release-one task.	Unverified claims, unexplained logo-wall material, outdated schedule copy.
Redirect	An old URL has traffic, links or a clear new equivalent.	Old service URLs to the most specific new destination.
Hold / noindex	Evidence or product detail is incomplete but may be needed later.	Draft case studies, package comparison, future D2C content.

Initial redirect principles

- Use one-to-one redirects where a genuine equivalent exists; avoid sending every retired page to Home.
- Preserve strong modality intent through the closest service page or anchored section.
- Redirect wellbeingstudio.com.au to /wellbeing-studio with canonical ownership on the CYA domain.
- Keep Moodle member URLs outside the public SEO migration map except for intentional sign-in links.
- Do not migrate unsupported claims merely because they currently rank or appear in snippets.
- Complete the redirect register from a full URL inventory and Search Console export before launch.

Current content pattern	Proposed destination	Status / note
Corporate yoga / yoga pages	/workplace-wellbeing/movement	Rewrite for workplace adaptation; preserve yoga terms within content and metadata.
Pilates / stretch / chair yoga	/workplace-wellbeing/movement	Merge unless analytics proves a dedicated landing page is warranted.
Meditation / mindfulness / breathwork	/workplace-wellbeing/mindfulness	Merge within a practical mental-

		wellbeing page; avoid clinical claims.
Lunch & Learn / workshops	/workplace-wellbeing/workshops	Consolidate and clarify online and onsite delivery.
Events / wellbeing days / conferences	/conferences-events	Use conference-first page with wellbeing-day content where relevant.
Packages / pricing concepts	No public URL yet	Hold until package boundaries and pricing status are approved.
Wellbeing Studio public content	/wellbeing-studio	One comprehensive CYA sales page.
Blog posts	/resources or retire	Assess quality, currency, intent, evidence and organic value individually.
Current testimonials and logos	Case-study or proof model	Do not migrate without permission and context.

5. Buyer, gatekeeper and member decision paths

The website must distinguish the organisational buyer, internal gatekeeper, program administrator, participant and Studio member. They may interact with the same service, but they do not have the same goal or evidence need.

Journey	Trigger	Goal	Questions / anxieties	Route	Next action	Alternative path
HR planning the year	Annual planning cycle, budget, wellbeing calendar or stakeholder request	A credible, manageable plan people will use	Participation, inclusivity, workload, internal approval, national delivery	Home → Programs → Year View → case study → consultation	Plan your wellbeing program	If annual scope is premature, offer a short series or one useful moment.
One-off session buyer	Awareness day, team event, short-notice request or specific activity	Book an appropriate session quickly	Suitability, format, availability, logistics, price and confidence	Home → Workplace wellbeing → modality/occasion → consultation	Discuss a one-off session	Offer a series only after the one-off need is fully respected.
Multi-site or national buyer	Need across locations, remote teams or several offices	Confirm dependable delivery and coordination	Coverage, consistency, travel, standards, reporting, local constraints	Home → Programs → multi-site content → proof → consultation	Ask about multi-site delivery	Qualify locations before claiming capacity.
Conference organiser	Agenda gap, delegate energy, wellbeing stream or event differentiation	Integrate useful moments without disrupting the agenda	Timing, room setup, facilitator reliability, audience fit, run-sheet coordination	Home/search → Conferences → format → event proof → consultation	Discuss your conference	Provide one activation or a broader event partnership.
Smaller organisation considering Studio	Needs reach and continuity without complex onsite delivery	Understand Studio fit, cost logic and implementation	Adoption, value, content relevance, support, privacy, contract scale	Home → Studio → walkthrough → consultation	Book a Studio walkthrough	Offer a one-off or short series if Studio is not the right fit.
Returning or referred prospect	Referral, prior booking or known CYA relationship	Validate fit and reach the right person fast	Current capability, response time and next step	Direct page → contextual CTA → consultation	Book a consultation	Provide phone route and recognise prior relationship.
Procurement / WHS / privacy / IT	Due diligence after internal interest	Confirm risk, contracting, privacy and delivery standards	Insurance, credentials, data, safety, terms, incident process	Relevant offer → procurement information → consultation	Request procurement information	Never publish unverified documentation or overstate compliance.
Employee or Studio member	Needs to access the service	Sign in or find support immediately	Correct URL, account help, privacy and next live action	Header utility → Moodle sign-in	Sign in to Wellbeing Studio	Keep member support distinct from the corporate sales form.

Journey design rules

- A one-off buyer reaches relevant options in one navigation decision and no more than one additional page.
- An annual-planning buyer sees the Year View only after shorter entry options are established.
- A conference organiser receives event-specific logistics, proof and CTA language rather than generic service copy.
- Gatekeeper evidence is available without dominating the emotional and commercial narrative.
- Members are routed directly to the authenticated environment and are not asked to navigate the corporate acquisition journey.
- Every failure path offers a proportionate alternative, not an automatic upsell.

6. Proposition, offer logic and claim controls

Practical, human, grounded and workplace-aware.	Woo-woo, preachy, athletic or transformation-led language.

DESIGNED WITH THE AGENDA

CYA works with the event, not around it

What we plan

- Audience and conference tone
- Timing, room layout and technical requirements
- Facilitator briefing and run sheet integration
- Accessible options and participation cues

What the organiser receives

- A clear recommended format and scope
- Practical logistics and communication guidance
- One accountable CYA contact
- Relevant follow-up options without a forced upsell

PROOF IN CONTEXT

Show an event story, not a generic testimonial

The strongest proof explains the agenda challenge, intervention, duration, participant response and organiser feedback.

10. Governed proof and case-study model

Proof is a content type with governance, not a decorative section. Every public proof item must be tied to permission, evidence, context and review.

Field group	Required fields
Approval	Client permission; approver; approval date; permitted channels; confidential details; review/expiry date; evidence location.
Identity	Working title; public headline; summary; sector; size band; locations; dates; CYA services; program pathway.
Context	Organisational situation; why wellbeing mattered; previous approach; constraints.
Objectives	Client objective; success criteria; measures agreed before delivery where available.
Insight and decision	Discovery; why the formats were selected; tailoring; facilitator match; accessibility and inclusion.
Delivery	Duration; cadence; locations; modes; participant groups; responsibilities; changes during delivery.
Evidence	Registrations; attendance; repeat participation; satisfaction; qualitative themes; renewal; source; denominator; period; limitations.
Client voice	Approved quotation; name; role; organisation; approval record.
CYA reflection	What CYA learned; what changed; relevance to a similar buyer.
Assets	Approved logo; photography; artefacts; captions; alt text; usage rights.
Closing action	Related offer; relevant buyer; consultation CTA; resource.

Prototype publication control

Non-publishable placeholder rule

Named clients, logos, quotations, metrics and photographs may appear in prototypes only when visibly labelled as placeholders and technically separated from publishable CMS states.

Duplicate	Acknowledge the existing enquiry without exposing CRM information; allow updated detail.
Not a sales enquiry	Route member support, facilitator enquiries and other contacts to the appropriate path.

Data boundary

Public sales forms must not collect health information, employee wellbeing status or sensitive individual data.

12. CMS and content model

The platform should be selected against actual publishing tasks. Non-technical owners must be able to update pages, resources, proof, people, FAQs, metadata and redirects without routine developer intervention.

Content type	Key fields	Governance
Page	Title, URL, audience, hero, modules, CTAs, SEO, owner, review date, evidence status.	Draft → review → approved → published → archived.
Service / modality	Name, need, format, delivery modes, practical requirements, related proof, FAQs, SEO.	Availability and claims reviewed quarterly.

Editorial autonomy	Structured editing, previews, approval states, scheduled publishing and simple media management.
Performance	Image optimisation, font control, caching and limited third-party script cost.
Accessibility	Semantic templates and component states that support WCAG 2.2 AA.
Integrations	Reliable HubSpot, analytics, Search Console and Moodle hand-offs.
Maintainability	Type-safe components where custom development is used; documented data contracts and limited abstraction.
Cost and ownership	No unapproved third-party spend; clear hosting, backup and support ownership.

13. Release-one system requirements

Area	Requirement	Acceptance evidence
HubSpot	Forms, source attribution, consent, notifications, lifecycle, scheduling and failure monitoring.	End-to-end test records in production-like environment.
Moodle hand-off	Persistent member sign-in and clear transition to studio.corporateyoga.com.au.	Link, authentication and support-path tests.
WS registration	Maintain approved registration/enrolment process; avoid public promises beyond verified workflow.	Registration test and role/enrolment verification.
Analytics	GA4 event model, consent-aware implementation and Search Console ownership.	DebugView / real-time tests and documented event dictionary.

States	Loading, empty, success, failure, unavailable and expired states for interactive content.	Component QA in responsive prototype.

Wellbeing Studio reporting boundary

- Employer reports may include eligible or registered counts, aggregate active use, aggregate attendance, trend data and voluntary aggregate feedback where approved.
- Suppress or combine segments below ten people unless the privacy reviewer approves a stronger threshold.
- Do not expose names, individual histories, health information or inferred wellbeing status.
- Do not describe logins, attendance or content views as clinical or causal wellbeing outcomes.
- Define standard and enhanced reporting only after Moodle data, effort and privacy have been validated.

14. Accessibility, responsive and performance acceptance

Area	Acceptance criterion
Structure	One meaningful H1, ordered headings, landmarks, lists and semantic controls.
Keyboard	All functionality operable in a logical order with visible focus and no traps.
Forms	Persistent labels, instructions before errors, linked error summary, preserved values and programmatic status.
Contrast	WCAG 2.2 AA contrast; test gold actions at actual size and state.
Zoom and reflow	Usable at 200% and 400% zoom without two-dimensional scrolling for ordinary content.
Touch	Minimum 44 × 44 CSS pixel targets; preferably 48 px for primary controls.
Motion	Respect prefers-reduced-motion; no essential information delayed by animation; no autoplay.
Media	Captions for video, transcripts for audio/video, descriptive titles and pause/stop controls.

LCP	Target ≤ 2.5 seconds at the 75th percentile on representative mobile traffic.
INP	Target ≤ 200 milliseconds at the 75th percentile.
CLS	Target ≤ 0.1 at the 75th percentile.
Page weight	Set budgets after image strategy and platform selection; minimise client-side JavaScript and third-party tags.

Representative device validation

Test on a current iPhone and Android device, a lower-powered mobile profile, tablet widths, laptop and large desktop. Include slow-network simulation, keyboard-only use, screen-reader spot checks and content stress tests with long organisation names, headings and error messages.

15. SEO and analytics plan

Search strategy

- Use the buyer-led architecture as the primary navigation model while preserving modality search language in page copy, headings, metadata and redirects.
- Prioritise commercial and planning intent over broad lifestyle-wellness publishing.
- Build unique pages only when the search intent, content depth and business value justify them; avoid thin modality duplication.
- Use case studies and resources to answer specific buyer questions, with sources and review dates.
- Implement valid Organisation, Service, Article, FAQ and Breadcrumb structured data only where the visible content supports it.
- Complete a pre-launch crawl, indexation check, redirect test and Search Console change monitoring.

Measurement questions and events

Question	Events / measures
Do users understand one-off and ongoing entry points?	Hero CTA selection, pathway-card selection, scroll depth to Year View and exit patterns.

Question	Events / measures
Which offer generates qualified demand?	Form starts/completions and qualified consultations by enquiry type and source page.
Does proof reduce uncertainty?	Case-study opens, proof-module engagement and conversion sequence before enquiry.
Does the Year View support program interest?	Year View interaction/static section engagement and subsequent Programs/consultation action.
Does Studio attract the right organisational interest?	Studio walkthrough requests, member-sign-in misclick rate and qualification outcome.
Where do forms fail?	Validation errors, abandonment, technical failures and scheduling completion.
Is organic migration healthy?	Clicks, impressions, ranking clusters, indexation, 404s and redirect performance.
Is the experience technically healthy?	Core Web Vitals, availability, JS errors and form endpoint monitoring.

Measurement discipline

Only implement events that answer an agreed question. Do not collect employee-level product behaviour for employer-facing sales analytics.

17. Stage 2 approval checklist and Stage 3 brief

Stage 2 approval checklist

- ☐ One-off sessions are visible in the hero, first offer module, navigation and consultation copy.
- ☐ The Year View reads as an optional planning instrument, not a minimum commitment or package.
- ☐ Every release-one page has one defined job, audience, message and primary action.
- ☐ Buyer, gatekeeper, administrator, participant and member routes are distinct.
- ☐ Wellbeing Studio describes the current product separately from future ambition.
- ☐ Access, Engage and Thrive remain controlled until package economics and boundaries are approved.
- ☐ Proof appears where doubt arises and no unsupported asset is publishable by accident.
- ☐ The consultation supports one-off, conference, Studio and program enquiries proportionately.
- ☐ Mobile, accessibility, performance, privacy and SEO are embedded in page definitions.
- ☐ The CMS and technical requirements are clear enough to evaluate the platform.
- ☐ Stage 3 can establish creative direction without reconstructing strategy.

Stage 3 commission

Translate this approved experience and content definition into a distinctive CYA creative direction, responsive high-fidelity prototype and production design system. The design must express practical human authority rather than generic corporate wellness. It should establish a coherent visual relationship between CYA acquisition and the lighter, member-focused Wellbeing Studio product experience without allowing Studio to replace CYA as the release-one corporate brand.

Stage 3 output	Requirement
Creative concept	One ownable visual idea rooted in “one useful moment” and continuity across the working year.
Art direction	Workplace-real photography, varied people and environments, no flexibility clichés or performative wellness.
Typography and colour	Confirm licensed production fonts, CYA/WS hierarchy, contrast and coded tokens.
Component system	Responsive, semantic components with complete interaction and content states.
High-fidelity prototype	Home, Workplace Wellbeing, representative service, Programs, Conferences, Studio, Proof, About and Consultation.
Technical architecture	Platform recommendation, content contracts, integration

Stage 3 output	Requirement
	plan, rendering strategy and performance budgets.
Validation	Buyer-task review, accessibility evaluation, responsive content stress test and technical spike where risk remains.

Immediate next actions

- 7. Review and approve the proposed sitemap, navigation and page inventory.
- 8. Confirm the remaining architecture choices: Resources launch depth, retreats/team-day treatment, consultation scheduling model and platform decision timing.
- 9. Run the Studio package-definition and unit-economics exercise in parallel.
- 10. Begin the permission, proof, facilitator, legal and analytics evidence workstreams.
- 11. Use the approved page briefs and working copy to refine content-led wireframes, then commence Stage 3 creative direction.

Decision requested

Approve this package as the governing Stage 2 direction, subject to the controlled dependencies listed in Section 16.
